DEALERS SAY RISE IN DAIRY PRODUCTS

Short Crops And High Cost Of Feed Will Cause Butter To Soar.

WHOLESALE BEEF COSTLIER TODAY

One Cent Per Pound Added, But Consumer Is Spared Temporarily.

That high prices on dairy products are due for a raise, in spite of the high prices already prevailing, is the prediction of dealers in provisions this morn-

There is plenty of "rubbish" butter on hand, which includes tub and renovated butters, the dealers say, but the short crops in many parts of the country, and the high price of feed, will cause the prices on prime new butter to soar still higher.

To make matters worse for the housewife, it is also predicted that the prices on the other grades will follow the upward tendency.

It was predicted by dealers in cheese that their commodity is also due for a fump in price, on acount of the higher price on milk

Wholesale prices on some kinds of beef are a cent higher per pound this merning, and although the retail price remains practically the same, some dealers said they may be compelled to ask Seismograph At Georgetown Registers Tremors 2,000 Miles Away.

A pronounced earthquake shock beginning at 5:21 o'clock this morning and lasting forty minutes was recorded by the seismograph at Georgetown University.

So far as can be learned this is another of the mysterious tremors that rend the earth's crust in waste places. It is estimated by Father Tondorf, in charge of the department of seismology, that the shock was somewhere within a radius of 2,500 miles of Washington. Whether it was in the Atlantic ocean or in some uninhabited portion of the Permanent Display To Open Within Two Weeks, Plan Of Officials.

Within two weeks the opening of permanent exhibit by the Board of Education of work and recreation fea tures of Washington school play grounds is planned.

The exhibit is being prepared by Dr Rebecca Stonehead, director of physical training in the schools.

The display will be confined entirely to the school playgrounds. These are not connected, except incidentally, with the public playgrounds of the Washington Playground Association, but al work toward the same results.

Sixteen of the public schools will be represented in the exhibit. Of these six are colored schools. Samples of industrial work from each school, after competitive tests and selections from pupils of all grades, will be placed in the exhibit.

"We wish teachers of other cities to see what wonderful progress is being made by the children in the playground work, and what splendid adjuncts the playgrounds are to the school, the pupils and even to the parents of the hildren," said Dr. Stoneroad.

"We will display samples of woven baskets, mats and embroidery made by the girls, and caned chairs, playground apparatus, carpentry products and other industrial accomplishments of the

Enlarged photographs will be used as decorative features of the exhibit. These pictures have been taken at all of the sixteen school playgrounds, and will show the games, drills and physi-cal training, as well as industrial in-struction, given the children at the playgrounds.

The school playground season is now at its height. Dr. Stoneroad has mapped out a course of games and physical exercise adapted to the age and size of the children in the various grades. Each morning before the school bells ring, during recess, at noon and often after school the party school. and often after school, the playgrounds
